

Like dancing? Interested in learning Chinese Cultural Dance?

We are pleased to offer our young students Chinese Cultural Dance classes on Saturday afternoons. Our dance teacher, Wang Ting, is experienced in different Chinese Cultural dances.

This year we will be working towards a special event to celebrate the reopening of the Asia Gallery at The British Museum on Sunday November 5th. The Gallery has been closed for some time to re-display and re-interpret objects from China, South Asia and Southeast Asia.

Important details:

- Lessons are provided FOC to students (age 6 years and above) of Hua Hsia Chinese School. Limited to 15 students.
- Lessons will be conducted on Saturdays, 2.45pm - 3.45pm at our Hampstead Branch
- Experience in dance, ballet or gymnastics preferred
- Available to perform on Sunday, 5th November 2017 at the British Museum (time to be confirmed)
- As the performance is open to the public at British Museum, parents must be agreeable to photos / videos being taken of their children during the performance
- There may be costs incurred for the making of the costumes and props. We are checking with the British Museum if they will sponsor these costs.

If you are agreeable to all of the above, please email Ivy at events@huahsia-chinese.org.uk .

Depending on the response, we hope to commence the dance class on Saturday 16 September 2017
